Stephen Moss bio:

Since moving to Dunwoody five years ago, Stephen has closely followed local politics and government, and is interested in finding a way to contribute. Stephen is in-house legal counsel and Assistant Secretary at Strata Products Worldwide, a company based in Sandy Springs, and believes his experiences advising senior management and company ownership on legal issues, risk assessment and related business matters will be strengths in serving on either the City of Dunwoody's Community Council or Ethics Board. Stephen is also involved in the local community, serving on the Austin Elementary School Council and as a deacon at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church. Stephen received his undergraduate degree in political science from the University of Georgia and a law degree from the University of Georgia School of Law. He resides in the Wynterhall neighborhood in Dunwoody with his wife, Lindsay, and their three children, Sydney (7), Hunter (4) and Samantha (2)."

Eleanor is a native of Tampa, Florida, but has lived in Georgia since 1972 and in Dunwoody for 18 years. She has raised two daughters, Audrey & Claudia – both of whom attended their entire school careers in the area – first at Austin Elementary, then Peachtree Charter Middle and finally graduation from Dunwoody High School. They attend Georgia Tech and UGA respectively.

There has hardly been a time during the past 18 years that Eleanor has not served in some capacity as a volunteer in her neighborhood or community including various positions at Austin/Peachtree/DHS, “Swim Team Mom and Tennis Mom” for the Redfield neighborhood, ALTA captain, Redfield Board, Dunwoody Nature Center Board member and hosting the Home Tour, Garden Tour and Barefoot in the Garden events at her home

While Eleanor is an attorney who is presently active in the Georgia Bar and maintains a contract legal services practice, her primary focus is on the business she owns in Dunwoody – Moondog Growlers. This craft beer establishment has been a part of the Dunwoody business landscape since 2012.

As a parent, resident and business owner – Eleanor holds great respect and love for her community and looks forward to continued service in support of the City of Dunwoody through participation in the Ethics Board.
